Commissioners Extend Deadline For Withdrawal Of County Aid

Information Withheld, Officials Say

MONROE County Commissioners yesterday granted a 30-day extension of time to the Children's Aid Society before their action to withdraw funds from the unit becomes effective.

In explaining the reasons for their recent move to cut off funds from the agency, the commissioners told Society Directors Dr. LeRoy Koehler and Detleff Hansen yesterday that considering the funds made available to the agency by the county, too little information has been released to their office.

Accuse Molitor

The commissioners cited two cases in which they believe more facts should have been aired for further investigation, and on questioning Albert Molitor, executive secretary of the CAS, said they could gain no further information.

Efficient Work

Hansen and Dr. Koehler cited the work the agency had done in the past, reporting that the group had done its work efficiently, and to give the children the best of care.

Hansen said the agency should be allowed to continue to give the service provided in the past and, he said, if it requires a change in personnel it would be a "simple matter."

Hansen asked for time for the CAS board to make any necessary changes since, he said, "everything does not work out according to plan" and the group and the commissioners are all working in the interest of the children.

"Perhaps some persons are under the wrong impression they have information of a confidential nature," Hansen said, but the best welfare of the children can be met through this organization, he told the commissioners.

Dr. Koehler then said he had worked for the future of the CAS since 1931, and he asked that if the organization "is no good," then he wanted to know why it was such.

Plan Questioned

He said that he did not understand the present predicament, and added that he did not know how the children could be turned over to the county.

Hansen then asked the commissioners to reconsider their move in cutting off the funds. Such a move, he said, would be "vital, important and too drastic" not to consider reconsideration.

It was at this point that Hansen, who had repeatedly asked that personalities be kept from the discussion, was reminded by Leo Achterman, county solicitor, that personalities had entered into the discussion regardless of attempts to keep them out.

Achterman then asked if there would be a chance in policy to conform with the commissioners' desires, and Hansen said there would be. Perhaps, he said, there had been misunderstandings in the past in connection with relations between the two offices.

"Arrogance," Achterman said, "would be a better term."

Maintaining Standards

Dr. Koehler said that in the future it would be hard for the CAS to maintain standards as in the past.

Commissioner Willard Quick said it would not be necessary under the commissioners' plan to have a college-trained staff.

"I have always maintained that Monroe County people should run that agency," Quick said.

"Certainly in Monroe County there is a person qualified to run the agency," Quick added.

When the matter of the two cases where information had been withheld were broached to the two representatives, both denied ever having heard of either case.

College Work

Questioned concerning Molitor's teaching at the college, Dr. Koehler said Molitor was the (Please Turn To Page Three)

Winter Debuts Today In Wake Of Snowstorm

WINTER — which arrives officially at 9:35 a.m. today — gave the Pocono Mountains a sneak preview yesterday as three to six inches of snow fell throughout the area.

Traffic slowed and Christmas shoppers thinned out as the fall continued throughout the afternoon and late night.

Highways were described as hazardous throughout the area despite the efforts of State Highways Dept. crews.

Frank J. Smith, Monroe County superintendent for the highway department, said he had 33 trucks, four graders, six loaders, one shovel, 14 pickups and 96 men in action last night.

State Police of the local barracks estimated the snowfall here at six inches and said roads were in "very bad" shape. Mount Pocono barracks said five to six inches fell there and roads were still snow covered, despite plowing and cinders.

At Pocono Lake, troopers estimated the fall at two inches and said highways were slippery. At Milford, State Police said about four inches of snow fell. Highways were described as very slippery and chains were advised.

At Lehighton, troopers said about three inches of snow had fallen and was packed hard. Roads were said to be in "pretty good" shape.

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg police both reported that travel was light and that the roads in both boroughs were slippery.

At Pocono Lake, troopers reported the fall at two inches and said highways were slippery. At Milford, State Police said about four inches of snow fell. Highways were described as very slippery and chains were advised.

Gideon

God Chose Gideon To Save Israel From Midianites

"...and his son Gideon threshed wheat by the winepress, to hide it from the Midianites."—Judges VIII

AN ANGEL of the Lord appeared to Gideon as he cautiously threshed wheat beside the winepress so that his family's Midianite enemies would not see him.

Gideon asked: "Oh my Lord, if the Lord be with us, why then is all this befallen us?" He meant, why had God permitted the Midianites to reduce the children of Israel to a state of poverty and fear.

It was then that God revealed to the youth the destiny that was his. "Go in thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee?"

But young Gideon could not

Questioning Is Postponed

NEW YORK (AP)—Questioning of seven Apalachin delegates convicted of conspiracy was postponed Monday by the State Investigation Commission until Jan. 13—five days after the delegates' scheduled sentencing in Federal Court.

This was done "so the commission will in no way influence sentencing of these people by Judge Irving R. Kaufman," a spokesman said.

The action met the approval of defense attorneys. They had asked a delay on the ground that questioning before the sentencing "would be prejudicial to our clients."

The seven were among 20 defendants found guilty last Saturday of conspiring to conceal the real purpose of the 1957 conclave. They were subpoenaed at once to appear before the commission in hopes the convention might loosen their tongues.

Request Denied On Pinball Ban

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A request to hear new arguments on a State Supreme Court decision banning all multiple coin pinball machines was denied Monday.

But the state's highest tribunal left open the door for an appeal to a higher court. Counsel for the defendants said he would appeal.

The petition to re-argue was filed by Atty. Anthony Cavalante of Uniontown after the Supreme Court, in a 5-2 decision on Nov. 14, banned all multiple coin machines in Pennsylvania as illegal gambling devices.

"Since it is our opinion that we have been denied due process of the law under the decision of the State Supreme Court, we are resorting to the U. S. courts for redress," said Cavalante on learning of the court's action.

Kindergarten Boy Hit By Car

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A 5-year-old boy, on his way to kindergarten Monday morning, was injured seriously when struck by an automobile at the intersection of N. Main Street and Courtright Ave.

Admitted to General Hospital was Michael Serafin, of Wilkes-Barre. He suffered a possible skull fracture, compound fracture of the left leg near the hip, and lacerations and brush burns of the head.

Police said the driver of the car which struck the youngster was Mrs. Stella Depola of Parsons.

Reorganization Desired

President Eisenhower is not the first chief executive to express concern about the burdens of the presidency, but there are indications that he may be the first to advance the cause to any degree.

As Mr. Eisenhower enters his last year in the White House, he seems to be approaching his job with a combination of increased activity and philosophical detachment.

On the one hand, he is undoubtedly taking a more active part in government affairs than at any previous time in this tenure. On the other, he seems to have come to some conclusions about the role of a president and is preparing to set up a more workable administration for his successors.

Over the last week or so, news has been permitted to leak out that Mr. Eisenhower is in favor of a major reorganization of the executive branch of the government.

He appears to favor appointment of a firstsecretary — a kind of deputy president with broad powers to negotiate with other governments, coordinate government policies and act as a substitute for the President when so assigned.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Spurious Presents

Unfortunately some politicians never tire of thinking up spurious presents. For example, reports from Washington now indicate the chances are improving for Congressional approval next year of a compulsory health insurance plan for the aged.

This is the kind of thing that is difficult to discuss on unemotional grounds. The proportion of elderly in the population is rising. Medical costs are high. The Community unquestionably has an obligation to care for the indigent aged whether they are well or sick.

The fallacy, it seems to us, is in proceeding from these premises to the conclusion that it is either necessary or wise for the Federal Government to take charge. For one thing, private health insurance for the elderly is becoming increasingly available.

In the case of those who can't afford it, the proper order of responsibility, we think, goes like this: The family; if none, the resources of private charity; if that does not suffice, the local community?

ed.

Mr. Eisenhower also favors creation of a sort of top administrative officer for the Federal Government who would rank above Cabinet level and would coordinate many of the federal programs which now overlap into several different departments and agencies.

The President's ideas are an obvious outgrowth of his own experiences in the White House, particularly during the periods of his illnesses when the ceremonial and administrative details of his office came into the spotlight.

In seeking to ease the chores of his successors, Mr. Eisenhower has the backing of his two living predecessors, former Presidents Herbert Hoover and Harry Truman, both of whom enjoyed only limited success in achieving necessary reorganization.

He should have the overwhelming support of the public in any recommendations he makes which will remove some of the complexities from the office of president provided, of course, that they do not aim to take over the responsibilities and powers of any other branch of the government.

More About Candidates

Nelson Rockefeller is putting up a stiff campaign for the Republican nomination. His trips about the country are wind-down dressing.

The realistic activity is, as usual, the search for delegates, some of whom are, in various ways, purchasable. South of the Mason-Dixon Line in states which Republicans rarely carry, the principal value in being Republican politician is what comes from the National Convention. There can be a living in it.

Vice President Richard Nixon remains the choice of the organized Republican Party in most states. Even in New York State, professional Republicans believe that the party has a better chance with Nixon than with Rockefeller.

On the other hand, Rockefeller with naturally control the delegation as Thomas E. Dewey did before him. This is an enormous asset.

President Eisenhower's glorious success on his trip to Europe and Asia has strengthened the Republican Party throughout the country. It is the party of experience, most Americans feel. On the other hand, the trade union bosses have shown no indication of moving from the Democrats to the Republicans.

When Rockefeller ran for Governor of the State of New York, he could count on some labor votes switching to him. He cannot count on that in a Presidential election.

Regarded as the acme of executive ability, his career as Governor of Illinois was not sparkling nor did it give evidence of administrative genius.

Despite his two defeats, however, Stevenson remains popular among Democrats, particularly among the former Rooseveltians.

It is beginning to look as though the Democratic Party is developing a test of strength between Harry Truman who speaks for the organized party and the Eleanor Roosevelt-Herbert Lehman radicals who would reinstitute the New Deal.

He attracts liberals to himself as honey attracts flies. Ask them why they adore him and they usually cannot tell you. He is one of the ab! human beings, in whose presence maidens swoon in ecstasy.

Why? What magic power does this rather obscure person possess? Such questions are for the psychologist rather than for the political analyst.

Perhaps as Presidents Harding and Coolidge fitted the Jazz Age, or as someone called it, the Era of Magnificent Non-sense, so Adlai Stevenson exemplifies the Era of the Beatniks.

This sort of activity reached its peak during the previous Leader Administration as one administrative department after another let go repeated blasts pushing its own respective program — a part and parcel of the overall administration program.

At times in the past executive agency aides have been found on Senate or House side-

Concerned About Children

Dear Editor:

I could not believe what I read in the Daily Record this morning — that the county Commissioners had curtailed, and without warning, notified the Children's Aid Society they would discontinue using their services on January 4th. There is no explanation as to why this action is taken or what the commissioners plan to do.

Much of this reversion to the "accepted practice" on Capitol Hill this session can be credited to none other than Governor Lawrence who, notwithstanding the fact that he had to face an anti-administration GOP-controlled Senate has held his executive branch fire and has ordered his departmental aides to do likewise.

Mr. Lawrence perhaps best summed it up — inadvertently — at a press conference the other day when a reporter asked, on the subject of a Senate block of gubernatorial appointments, whether it wasn't necessary for the Governor "to fight fire with fire?"

The Governor's reply: "Yes, but as I say, I don't want to engage in that kind of activity until I get to the place where I am forced to do it. I would like the government to run in an orderly fashion — and I am sure the people want the government run that way. They elected me Governor of the state and they elected the Legislature to handle their legislative side. I want to handle mine strictly according to what they plan to do."

I believe that every citizen in Monroe County has a stake in this problem because children are our greatest asset. I hope every citizen will demand an immediate accounting from the commissioners.

We've always had a hankering to delve into a society work. Not that we feel that we could ever take any of the glory away from Bobby Westbrook but just that we felt an urge to cover all phases of newspaper work.

Last Saturday night we got the chance to rub noses with the society world amongst the assembled dancers at the Junior Women's Club shindig at Pocono Manor.

No doubt Mrs. Westbrook has heard about what milady had on and the surroundings in which each belle of the ball was amidst.

However, we know no one has reported about MIMEN and his entire.

With this we'll shove into the work of the day which was set up by the jig of the night.

There was Atty. Joseph McCluskey attired in his favorite Wyatt Earp vest which was fitting with the cool mountain atmosphere.

Naturally, Atty. Ed. Williams of Stroudsburg sported his favorite bow which went well with his smiling face, and John Baymor, the bank executive of Security Trust, wore a two-piece ensemble that befit the quiet surroundings of his daily life.

Al Schollenberger of the Barrett High faculty shifted his feet in the newest pair of dancing shoes, while John Gregory, assistant dean of men at East Stroudsburg Teachers College, brought forward a black suit with the white background, depicting snow of the Poconos.

The radio world was represented in the personalities of John Munier and Edward Somers. Munier had an Oxford grey motif to go with his greying head, and sidekick Somers was dressed in his famous wardrobe—spats, cane and gloves—which is a byword of the social fraternity.

There were others dressed to kill, like Dr. Gail Fegley, the Stroudsburg optometrist; Randy Morris, Harry Werkheiser, the two of a kind from Readers who make any full house; Ray Steele, Bushkill businessman; and Carl Adelmann, Stroudsburg.

For those among those facing possible prosecution is Harry Bridges.

About Town

By Gene Brown

The following is believed to have been written by a man named Francis Bacon for the YMCA during World War I. It is assumed that he wrote it because some one, overwhelmed with the problems of the world, asked the question, "But what can one man do?"

"One Solitary Life"

"Here is a man who was born of Jewish parents in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman.

"He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty, and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book.

"He never held an office. He never owned a home. He customers gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth while he was dying — and that was his coat. When he was dead he was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

"Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today he is the centerpiece of the column of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever were built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as has that One Solitary Life."

Unions Challenge Law

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Labor Secretary James Mitchell is asking the Justice Department to take legal action against a number of union officials under the new labor law — that has been in effect only since September.

Al Schollenberger of the Barrett High faculty shifted his feet in the newest pair of dancing shoes, while John Gregory, assistant dean of men at East Stroudsburg Teachers College, brought forward a black suit with the white background, depicting snow of the Poconos.

For those among those facing possible prosecution is Harry Bridges.

The West Coast longshoremen's boss is squarely challenging Section 504, which bars anyone convicted of a felony or who has been a member of the Communist Party in the past five years from holding union office.

This major provision of the new labor Act is being attacked by Bridges in two ways: He is flatly refusing to comply with Mitchell's request for a report on the eligibility of longshoremen officials; and has served notice that the constitutionality of this Section will be tested in the courts.

Three other unions also are raising the legality issue — the United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers, the American Communications Association, and the International Mine, Mill & Smelter Workers — all expelled from the CIO on charges of leftist domination.

In addition to seeking legal action against a number of union officials, Secretary Mitchell has also:

Requested the Justice Department to "look into the accuracy" of a report on Section 504 from Teamster boss James Hoffa.

Started 134 investigations of other possible violations of the new labor law, on the basis of hundreds of complaints from union members throughout the country, and the voluminous testimony and findings of the Senate Labor Rackets Committee.

Hoffa has notified Mitchell that "there were a few persons serving local unions on the effective date of the Act (September 14) were disqualified . . . from continuing their service. They have resigned." Mitchell wants the Justice Department to fully check that.

This detailed examination will be made by the FBI, which has exhaustive files on criminals and Communists.

The 134 investigations being made by the Labor Department include 26 cases of alleged misappropriation of union funds, 24 reputed unfair elections, 26 "illegal" trusteeships, and 19 instances in which union members claim infringement of their rights "through force and violence."

In a memorandum, Mitchell has told Attorney General William Rogers that these investigations already have produced results. As an example, he cited the following:

"Shortly after the announcement of the provisions of Section 504, a complaint was filed with the Labor Department charging violation by the president of an independent union in Passaic, N.J. An investigation was immediately ordered, during which time this union official relinquished his post. Subsequently, the investigation showed he was disqualified from holding office because of a felony conviction within the previous five years.

"A number of similar complaints are now under investigation."

More than 8,000 inquiries have been received by the Labor Department regarding the new Act since it went into effect in September. To handle prosecutions arising from it Attorney General Rogers has set up a new Labor Rights Unit in the Criminal Division.

Penalties under Section 504 are $10,000 fine, one year imprisonment, or both.

Still on Hand — John Lewis' widely-headlined retirement as long-time ruler of the United Mine Workers is not a complete bow-out. The 80-year-old laborite, who will continue to draw his $50,000-a-year pay for life, will become chairman of the board of trustees of the union's $150 million-a-year health and retirement fund, which owns and operates a number of hospitals.

The General Services Administration, major purchasing agency of the government, has admitted to the Senate investigators that it has bought a "number" of tiny, under-arm type recording devices for certain agencies. GSA didn't reveal their names, but claimed the "principal use of these machines is to provide officials with dictating facilities while on field trips."

The 1934 Federal Communications Act makes use of wiretapping information a crime, stating "No person shall intercept and divulge a telephone or radio conversation without consent of the caller." Similarly, the Supreme Court has banned wiretapping evidence in federal trials.

DL&W Gross Revenue Dips $300,000 During November

HOBOKEN, N. J. — Gross revenue of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad dropped almost $300,000 during November, compared to the same month a year ago, the railroad reported yesterday.

Gross revenue in November of this year was $5,646,608, compared to $5,937,764 for the same month in 1958. Net deficit after fixed charges was listed as $562,436 for November, 1959, compared to $338,735 last year, and

Soviet, Swedes Sign Agreement

MOSCOW (AP) — Sweden and the Soviet Union signed a trade pact Monday providing for an increased exchange of goods. The Soviet News Agency Tass said that under the agreement, covering next year's trade, the Soviet Union will export more oil products, iron and other ores, equipment and machinery to Sweden than it has in past years. Sweden will supply tubes, plant equipment, leather, foodstuffs "and other goods," Tass added.

Child Snatches, Loses $5,600

NEW YORK (AP) — A child thief cost a woman cashier $5,600 in cash she was taking to a bank Monday in a paper bag. The money slipped from the 8-year-old girl's grasp but was picked up by a man who escaped.

The victim was Catherine Baker, about 50, en route to a bank with receipts from the upper Broadway cafeteria where she works.

At 85th Street and Broadway, the girl snatched the bag and ran. A passerby grappled with the child and the youngster dropped the bag. A man came along, picked up the bag and both he and the child disappeared.

Corporate Earnings To Increase

By Jack Letter
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate earnings should increase 15 per cent to $27,200,000,000 in 1960, Standard & Poor's Corp. predicted Monday.

And, it said dividend payments are likely to rise 12½ per cent to $14,800,000.

"Barring another steel strike," says the financial analyst, "1960 promises to be the most prosperous year in history, buttressed in part by a carry-over of sales and profits that normally would have been realized in the final half of 1959."

Standard & Poor's said dividend payments during the normally active year-end season are falling short of hopes because of the steel strike and its costly side effects.

1959 Dividends Higher

"By the same token," it adds, "prospects for 1960 have been correspondingly heightened."

"Aggregate cash payments for the first 11 months of 1959 were 5 per cent higher than the corresponding period of last year. December is always the banner of the year, reflecting the inclusion of year-end extras, which are largely determined by the level of profits."

"Confronted with restricted earnings resulting from the unusually long steel strike, a number of companies have either deferred dividend increases or have been less liberal with extras than they otherwise might have been."

"The current year still will be the best on record for dividend payments, but whereas we previously had anticipated an increase of 9 per cent over 1958, the gain now seems more likely to be around 6 per cent."

Carter Paint Co. Shares Profits With Customers

JACK MUEHLHAN, of the Mary Carter Paint Store, 5 S. Sixth St., Stroudsburg, explains why the "Share the Profits" plans have been so successful.

The policy of Mary Carter

Paint Stores is: You buy one gallon or quart and you receive another absolutely free. The second can may be the same material or another of the same value.

Mary Carter carries a complete line of interior flat paints, outside oil paints, trim and deck enamel, fusion outside white and many others to handle any type of painting job you might undertake including the ever popular Roxlate, the paint that dries in 30 minutes.

Quality Paint

It has no painty odor. It is highly recommended for walls, ceilings and all masonry surfaces. Muehlhan says that Mary Carter Paint is quality paint . . . and the reason the company can give such quality paint at so low a price is the elimination of "down the line" middle men.

The company has no affiliation with any big business interest, belongs to no association of manufacturers, and has no obligation to anybody except its huge family of satisfied customers.

He Doesn't 'See' Straight, Either

Dear Abby: What do you think of a husband who says if you wear eyeglasses he won't be seen walking down the street with you? I am 55 years old and we have been married 36 years.

I started getting bad headaches and the eye doctor told me I needed glasses. I bought myself a beautiful pair and I paid a lot of money for them, too. Everybody says they look real nice but my husband says that any kind of eyeglasses look awful on a woman."

I keep telling him I can't see without them, but he says he doesn't care if I go blind. Please tell me what I should do next?

LADY WITH GLASSES

Dear Lady: Your husband must have shredded wheat where his brains belong. For goodness sakes, wear your eyeglasses! If he refuses to be seen with you, let him hide out.

Dear Abby: I have a weekly standing appointment at the beauty parlor. I have a shampoo, set and manicure. I tip each girl 25 cents. That makes 75 cents every week.

I am a working girl and pay room and board at home and buy my own clothes and try to save a little for vacations. I am not exactly poor but I can't afford to tip like that and buy them gifts at Christmas, too. I don't want to look cheap. What should I do at Christmas?

WORKING GIRL

Dear Girl: Simply say "Merry Christmas!" (P.S. But if you feel "cheap" at Christmastime because you have not given them a gift, buy them a Christmas gift, and during the year simply say, "Thank you.")

Dear Abby: I am very much in love with Steve but I am beginning to wonder if the feeling is mutual. He claims he loves me, but all he ever does when he comes to my house is EAT!

My mother is the one who feeds him and she doesn't seem to mind—but I do. The reason I am bothered is because when I am near Steve I can't eat a thing. That's the way love affects me. But Steve eats like a horse. Can our love be one-sided? Or doesn't love affect a boy's appetite the way it affects a girl's? We are both 17.

STEVE'S GIRL

Dear Girl: Nothing affects a teen-aged boy's appetite. Not even "love." In fact, most young men shovel in additional calories in order to keep the fires of love burning. Don't worry. If he says he loves you—believe him and pass the potatoes.

Confidential to "Newt": Perhaps your wife wouldn't be a wallflower if you didn't let her get potted.

What's your problem? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Motorists Get Reminder From FOP

A CHRISTMAS reminder to Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg motorists to drive carefully or be sorry, was issued today by Stroudsburg Police Chief John B. Tretheway, of the local chapter of the Fraternal Order of Police, in connection with its annual holiday safety campaign.

"Unless great caution and common sense are exercised by drivers," he said, "this holiday season could rank as one of the deadliest on the American highways. Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg residents want no part in contributing to such a disaster."

Tretheway said there will be no danger of such an eventuality if drivers observe all traffic regulations—particularly the speed laws; avoid night driving as much as possible; take frequent coffee-breaks on long trips, and remember that gasoline and alcohol don't mix. Over half the highway fatalities during the holiday season, he pointed out, are attributed to drinking drivers. The FOP campaign will again feature the slogan "Stay Alert, Stay Alive, Make It Safe When You Drive."

"We know that if everyone in this community adopts these safety suggestions, the Stroudsburgs will be rewarded with a safe and happy holiday," Tretheway concluded.

Market Dip Nips Record Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined in late profit taking Monday as the Dow Jones industrial average failed to hold a gain which would have put it at a record closing high.

It was the second time in a week the Dow industrials nudged above the historic closing high of 678.10 in the midst of a session only to close below that figure.

The Dow average held at or above the old Aug. 3 closing high most of the day but final selling threw it for a loss of .73, leaving the average at 675.92.

Early leadership by motors faltered badly late in the day and the group closed lower. Some of the blue chips which had been pushing the average higher clipped their gains or erased them entirely. The advance, at best, was labored and irregular. The Dow average performed similarly last Tuesday.

The Daily Investor'Discretionary Powers

By William A. Doyle

Q.—I am a 65-year-old widow. When my husband died, 18 months ago, he left be about $15,000 worth of stock. My husband always left his stock certificates with a brokerage firm. I have done the same thing.

The representative of the brokerage firm I deal with is always buying and selling for my account. Sometimes he buys some stock, holds it a few days and then sells it—without even consulting me. He tells me not to worry; that he will see to it that I won't lose any money.

But I am worried. These stocks are all I have, except Social Security and the $32 a month I receive from the rent of one room of my house.

My nephew advises me to get the certificates for all my stocks. Would this solve my problem?

A. The fact that you leave your stock certificates with a brokerage firm isn't your problem. That is known as keeping your certificates in a "street name." It's done all the time, for convenience and safety sake.

Your problem is that, somewhere along the line, you must have signed a document giving the broker "discretionary powers" over your account. The regulations covering discretionary accounts are very strict.

A broker would have to be soft in the head to trade for an account, without the customer's consent, if discretionary powers have not been granted.

A woman your age in your financial position should not have a trading account. The only person who is sure to make money from all that trading is the broker—who gets a commission on each buy and sell order.

So, cancel the discretionary powers right off the bat.

Then put your money into nothing except high-quality, conservative investments—those which provide a decent cash income.

Q. At each meeting of our investment club, a member is supposed to give an educational report on stock market terminology. At the next meeting, it will be my turn. I intend to talk about "bull and bear" markets, about which I really don't know too much.

What is a "bull" market? What is a "bear" market?

A. A bull market is simply a period when prices of most stocks are going higher. A bear market is a period when prices of most stocks are falling.

And a "bull" is someone who believes that stock prices are going to go up. A "bear" is someone who believes that stock prices are going to go down.

William A. Doyle is a representative of the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announces Frank Richards, secretary.

Custard Gains Membership

CLINTON CUSTARD, East Stroudsburg, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announces Frank Richards, secretary.

Custard was one of the 233 breeders of purebred Aberdeen-Angus in the United States elected to membership during the past month.

Hospital Official Named DV Boy Scout Unit Advisor

HENRY D. HAMILTON, administrator of the Easton Hospital, was named last night as advisor to the Council Explorer Cabinet of the Delaware Valley Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The appointment was announced by Herman A. Hahn, chairman of the Council's Camping & Activities Committee, at the quarterly meeting of the cabinet which met in the Bangor Borough Hall, South First St., Bangor.

Hamilton, 38, has been in Easton since January 1959 and is the father of five children. He was elected last week to membership on the Council's Executive Board at their annual meeting. He has been active previously in the Cubbing program of the Boy Scouts of America, while residing in Wilmington, Delaware. He is a native of Canada, and during World War II, was the executive officer of a Canadian Army Hospital in Europe.

The Explorer Cabinet made plan last night for the annual Council Explorer Dance to be held Saturday, April 23, 1960 in the Blue Valley Area Show Building on the Bangor-Pen Argyl Highway. William Moran, Jr., cabinet chairman, appointed the following committee: Chairman, James Laky, Pen Argyl; Fred Gibbs, Wilson; Julius Schrott, Canadensis; and Christian Yost, Phillipsburg. Omar Glantz, Palmer, will be adult advisor to the committee.

New Advisors

Moran, presiding at the meeting, also introduced two other newly-appointed advisors: Dr. Herbert K. England, advisor to the Warren District Cabinet, and Anthony Saveri, advisor to the Blue Mountain District Cabinet.

Hahn spoke to the group on the development plans for Camp Weygant during 1960, and Joseph J. Miller, District Executive, outlined the programs and activities planned for the Golden Jubilee Year.

The Explorer Cabinet is a feature of the new Explorer program. Its membership is composed of the officers of similar cabinets in each of the 4 districts of the Council. The function of the group is to plan and conduct large scale council-wide activities for Explorers.

Just Between Us —

—by Bobby Westbrook

Anybody still dreaming of a white Christmas? Well, they can bring their shovels and start shoveling my driveway any time. There is very little comfort in saying "I told you so" when I live on one side and work on the other side of that bridge.

So many people simultaneously got the idea of heading for home by way of Stokes Mill, that it took an hour and a half to make the trip. However that was still a half hour shorter than coming straight across.

Fortunately, the "Fête de Noel" at the Campus Laboratory school started just when the snow did, so I was able to enjoy it thoroughly. This is the second year some 75 children have voluntarily taken up conversational French with Mrs. Roz Anderson.

They were darling—and fluent. In skits, songs and an original play they chattered along as if it were their native tongue. They even had jokes in French. Since my own French accent is strictly home-grown, I couldn't tell how good theirs was, but I'm quite willing to take the word of an expert. Mrs. Edward Kenney, who said it was excellent.

And I can testify that Pere Noel is fulling as jolly and even more full of pranks than Santa Claus. It was fun, and fortunately over before the snow more than frosted the ground. The DAR members weren't quite so fortunate.

They started in clear weather but it took them until supper time to get home. What this snowfall is going to do to the last-minute shoppers is sort of pitiful.

My plight is even worse. I've two ravening college boys at home and not nearly enough groceries.

Some Christmas Treats With Seasonal Flavor

By Alice Denhoff

Make up packages of pound cake mix according to directions. Leave each cake in its own pan, when cool, wrap well in aluminum foil. Store in cake box or refrigerator.

Cake should stay moist and fresh for over two weeks.

Coconut Toasted Fingers

Cut into thin slices, serve as is or toasted or, for a tempting tidbit, make some Coconut Toasted Fingers.

For these cream 1/3 c. butter or margarine.

Add 1/4 tsp. cinnamon and 1/4 tsp. nutmeg. Gradually beat in 1 c. sifted confectioners' sugar.

Cut the pound cake into 1/2 in. fingers. Spread with butter mixture, roll in coconut. Place on cookie sheet and roast under broiler about 2 min., or until golden brown.

Mint Yule Log

For a party special, an easily prepared Mint Yule Log to serve 6, whip 1 c. heavy cream stiff.

Blend in 3 tsp. sugar, peppermint extract and green food coloring to please your artistic eye.

Spread mixture on 1 (8 oz.) pk. chocolate wafers and put wafers together in stacks of 4 or 5. Then lay wafer stacks on edge on platter to make one long roll, alternating cookies and whipped cream.

Frost outside of "log" with remaining cream.

Refrigerate 3-4 hrs.

Pro Basketball, A Game For The Fans

PROBABLY THE BIGGEST thing hurting pro basketball is the record.

True the pros are packing the stands this year but how long will it be before they tire of these organized layup drills that wear out scoreboards.

Fans are screaming for more and more scoring and the National Basketball Assn. is complying with their request by banning the zone defense and imposing a rule that requires a team to shoot within 24 seconds after it gains possession of the ball.

These rules have been in effect for several years and have done nothing more for the game than to create astronomical scores.

And to confuse the issue the pros have a set of rules all their own which I am sure even referees have a hard time understanding.

Just what constitutes a foul in pro ball? One minute you see two giants working each other over under the boards in what looks a street fight and the ref makes like blind Tom. Yet 10 seconds later the same ref is bellowing his lungs out and pantomiming a cross between a burlesque stripper and an Indian ceremonial dancer, all because Bob Cousy got his hand touched while making a pass.

Many Sports Have Same Rules For Pros

In pro football an offside is an offside the same as in college and high school and you still get three strikes and four balls in pro, college and sandlot baseball.

Yet the professional cagers play by fans rules with the only emphasis put on scoring. True the only way to win a game is by putting the ball through the hoop but if this is the case why not put each team on one half of the floor and let them see which five players can make the most buckets in 48 minutes.

That way you wouldn't have to worry about roles, referees or after the first quarter — fans, who would turn a cold shoulder.

But fans are tickle. They want a little spice with their scoring. They like to make believe that the defense is really trying, although when the scores top 140 that is stretching a point a bit.

Sure the pros say they play defense but how much defense can you play in 24 seconds and with several seconds being used to bring the ball up court. And how well was Elgin Baylor guarded the night he tossed in 84 points.

Of course it's hard to defend a big man like Wilt Chamberlain or Bill Russell because of their tremendous height and the fact that they get a great many points by tap-ins and close-in shots but Baylor is only 6-4 and he plays mainly outside.

Rookie Has To Have More Than Shots

It has always amazed me that sportswriters speculate on how well a rookie will be able to stand up under the heatings that are handed out in each NBA game. Of course not many of them do but win them out?" Many a fine college player has failed to make the grade with the pros simply because he didn't have fan elbow or Jack Dempsey's "killer instinct."

In baseball a pitcher's duel is far more exciting than a 13-12 marathon and a 7-6 football game is tops but the fans want to see big games in basketball.

But too much offense will probably ruin the pro game. And it may not be so long before the fans get tired of seeing shooting matches and start wondering what ever happened to the game of basketball.

Ice-Cold Stroud Union Wins, 62-55

Williams Nets 30, Loeffler Held To 10 By Cavaliers

MOTHER NATURE playing havoc on the outside blew an icy blast on the high scoring Stroud Union basketball team last night but the Mounties got to a 30 point effort out of Todd Williams and beat East Stroudsburg 62-55.

It was practically a one-man show for the Mounties, who won their fourth game in a row. Roy Loeffler, a 19 point per game performer before the inter-borough clash managed only 10 while John Martin shovelled in 11.

A fine defensive job by Bill Hillman and two sagging guards were mainly responsible for Loeffler's low production. The spring-legged senior hauled down 11 rebounds one less than Hillman.

But the Cavaliers had no panache for Williams who turned in his best performance of the season and made all the right moves.

When the Eastburgers played him tight he drove; when they sagged he went over top. And most of his heroics took place in the first three frames. He scored only three points in the last period and fouled out with less than two minutes to play.

Metzgar Hot

Eastburg tried to counter Williams with Doug Metzgar, who played the top game of his career. Hitting mainly on drives and jumpers, Metzgar found enough chinks in the Stroud armor to pierce in 17 points.

The Mounties jumped to an 8-0 lead and just as it appeared that they were starting a rout the Cavaliers scraped the snow off their feet.

Doug Schoonover's boys ran off seven straight points including a three-pointer by Jack Feilman, who scored on a driving and was fouled to boot.

Loeffler pushed a rebound through the net but Feilman scored on a crisp shot to run the count to 10-9 with Stroud Union out front.

The Mounties barely kept their heads above water until the end in the second period when Metzgar drove through the Mounties 2-1 zone for a two-pointer to make it 21-20. But Fridley claimed Dr. Sebastian "offered us the world—anything that came to his mind he said he'd get us—cars at cost and everything."

Keen Desire

"Our grades aren't up to snuff, but he said he'd fix everything—us senatorial scholarships and guarantee we got into dental school," said Falenski, who is averaging 17 points a game for the Panthers.

Both said they refused to have anything to do with Sebastian's offer, though they admitted having a keen desire to enter dental school.

Fridley, Pitt's top rebounder, told detectives he met with Dr. Sebastian separately Dec. 3 and Dec. 9. Falenski joined Fridley to meet Dr. Sebastian Dec. 10.

That's when the dentist made his pitch, according to Fridley.

Falenski said Dr. Sebastian told them to pick any game they wished to shave points.

"If we had, then afterward we'd been hooked, and he could have named which games to fix," said Falenski. He added:

"After the second bribe offer, we called our fathers. I was scared. My father told us to call Frank Carver (Pitt athletic director).

Carver took care of everything from then on."

Pitt officials in turn passed the story on to Dist. Atty. Edward Boyle of Allegheny County.

Sebastian is accused of breaking a 1951 state law passed in the wake of the infamous New York College basketball scandal.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Alex B. Smith, coach of the Engineers, showed off much more than his record.

The game wasn't really close. SMU was ahead by 14 points near the end when Coach Doc Hayes pulled all of his regulars off the court. The reserves fell to score and gave up five points before the buzzer.

Tech, ranked eighth nationally in the Associated Press Poll, ran the gamut in defensive measures, switching from man-to-man alignments to zone and at times hounding dribblers all the way down the court.

Four SMU players scored in double figures with Max Williams leading the way with 20 points. High point man of the game, however, was Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech with 25.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pete Brokaw, fast-stepping sophomore halfback, bumped a bad right arm Monday and his value to the Syracuse football team against Texas appeared in doubt.

Brokaw writhed in pain after he brushed an opposing lineman during a running drill for Syracuse's New Year's Day date in the Cotton Bowl.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Coach Tom Nugent of Maryland considers the upcoming Cotton Bowl game a contest matching the power and size of Syracuse against the speed and pursuit of Texas.

Maryland was the only team to play both national champion Syracuse (10-0) and fourth-ranked Texas (9-1).

On the scoreboard, the results were about the same. The Terps lost 26-10 to Texas and 29-10 to Syracuse.

"I had the players doing sprints Sunday, and could spot the ones who were faster and more agile, particularly the linemen. Then I've tried to find out who can catch the ball best."

HAS BOOTERS

"I knew pretty well who my passers would be, and my kickers. You can quote me that Syracuse would murder Texas," Nugent said. "But there's one big factor that doesn't show in the figures."

"We were in fine physical condition for the Texas game. Against Syracuse, we were in our worst condition of the year, because of injuries suffered in the Texas game."

"We're much impressed by Syracuse's power and running attack," Nugent said. "Syracuse is more impressive on defense—particularly in size."

Walker's starting offensive unit as of Monday had Jim Otto of Miami at center, Tom Gundersen of Maryland and Nick Palatella of Wake Forest at the guards, Kelly Minyard of North Carolina State and Jim Gardner of Duke at the tackles, Dan Edington of Florida and Al Goldstein of North Carolina at the ends,

Bethlehem Being Invaded By Christmas Pilgrimages

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—As in other years, thousands of people are making a pilgrimage to America's Christmas city, their eyes turned to the great star that shines over the Lehigh Valley.

Here is the heart of the historic and picturesque valley the star shines on its beams from the crest of South Mountain, perhaps the largest such display in the world.

Mounted on a steel frame 91 feet tall, its concrete base 25 feet wide one way, the star may be seen for 25 miles and more.

Bethlehem's attraction is without fanfare or fandango. The throngs of visitors come without benefit of big build-up, without steamed up promotion. Throughout this season the spirit of the city is kept as free from commercialism as possible. And where trade cannot be dispensed with, the aim is to put into the buying and selling something of the feeling you find in Charles Dickens' stories.

If Bethlehem's celebration is somewhat less spacious, physical, than it used to be, it is only that greater emphasis may be placed upon the deeper meaning of Christmas. To some extent economics is a factor, too, townspeople say, not in any penny pinching sense, but with the conviction that some of the money once spent on elaborate decorations could be better used to make Christmas merrier for the distressed, the infirm, the lonely, the sometimes forgotten.

No Way Detracts

But any construction in outward display in no way detracts from Bethlehem's appeal. Besides the magic of the star, which from a long way off seems to swing with all the other stars in the heavens, there are the Christmas parades, the networks of illuminations, the trees tastefully trimmed, the constant ring of young voices singing carols.

No church is without its finely wrought Nativity scene, every figure and every bit of background in the true tradition. For the churchmen of Bethlehem do not hold with any modern tampering with these portrayals of a redeemer's birth and man's rejoicing that it had come to pass.

Chessman Is Sentenced To Die For Eighth Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Carol Chessman, the convicted author who has evaded execution for 11½ years, Monday was condemned to die — for the eighth time.

Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker set Feb. 19 as the date the former "Redlight Bandit" of Los Angeles should die in the gas chamber.

Even as he was being sentenced his attorneys were launching complex legal moves to keep him alive.

"We have two legal avenues to pursue," said Atty. A. L. Wirin.

Chessman has used this as the basis for a long succession of writs, appeals and petitions.

"These aren't technicalities," said Wirin, who is representing Chessman as an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union.

"There's no such thing as a technicality when a man's life is at stake."

Chessman is still in San Quentin's Death Row.

"Alive" Since '48

Both moves, like most of the legal steps which have kept Chessman alive since 1948, are based on what his attorneys term "inadequacy of the record of his trial."

In May 1948 Chessman was convicted of 17 felonies committed by a bandit who roved the Hollywood hills in a red-light-equipped car, pretending to be a police officer and then robbing men and raping women.

Two of the crimes were kidnaps for robbery with bodily injury which calls for the death penalty in California.

After he was sentenced the court reporter who took notes at the trial died. Another reporter transcribed the first man's notes.

Chessman has used this as the basis for a long succession of writs, appeals and petitions.

"These aren't technicalities," said Wirin, who is representing Chessman as an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Grant Set For Lebanon

ANNVILLE, Pa.—The Esso Education Foundation has notified Lebanon Valley College that it is the recipient of a $2,500 Grant to be used for the remodeling program of the Department of Mathematics. This is the second Grant received for the College from the Esso Foundation within the last month.

The Grant has been made possible through the $1,500,000 gift to the Esso Education Foundation from the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) on its 75th Anniversary in support of a special science program. The Jersey Company made the contribution to the Fund on the premise that the money would be expended over a three year period, beginning with the 1957-58 academic year. The money to be used to improve teaching in the fields of science and engineering.

In announcing the receipts of the $2,500 Grant Dr. Frederic K. Miller, President of Lebanon Valley College, expressed deep satisfaction with the Foundation's announcement that his institution is one of fifty-four colleges and universities and six special projects in twenty-five states to share in the special Science Grants.

Week's Output Of Steel Set

NEW YORK (AP) Steel mills will turn out an estimated 2,636,000 tons this week, the American Iron & Steel Institute said Monday.

This would be equal to 93.1 per cent of capacity and is a slight drop from actual production last week of 2,726,000 tons or 96.3 per cent of capacity. The decline partly reflects the Christmas holiday, the institute said.
